

Timothy Shelley is the author of Stories When Little: Growing Up Under MK-ULTRA and Playboy's Progress: Coming of Age Under MK-ULTRA. He graduated with a bachelor's degree, cum laude, Phi Beta Kappa, from Pomona College before going on to earn a master's and doctorate from the University of Virginia. After teaching courses like Heroism, Desire, and the Bible as a Visiting Assistant Professor at Haverford College, he changed careers, like many targeted individuals, to attain a law degree, cum laude, from Washington and Lee University, while he lived on a cattle farm in the Blue Ridge. No sooner did he begin his career as a corporate lawyer when he became embroiled in a custody battle for his newborn infant. For fourteen years, this single father and his amazing daughter, Lily Montgomery, travelled the country from Maine to Florida, Big Sur to the San Juans, the Big Island of Hawaii to the Alaskan Bush, and the New York Plaza to the Chicago and Seattle Four Seasons as well as the Willard and the St. Regis in our nation's capital, not to mention frequent visits to the Shenandoah Valley and Cape May—skiing, ice-skating, hiking, swimming, diving, riding horses and bicycles, paddling and sailing boats, flying in helicopters and bushplanes, ballooning, riding on trains, mushing dogsleds, stalking wild animals, and just having fun—as the author devoted himself to his only child. The author lost that child due to his political activism against the Central Intelligence Agency. Since then, he has returned to teaching college, and he is proud to have taught many fine men and women in courses treating globalism, the oceans, public and private partnerships, agribusiness, world literature, philosophy, the development of the novel, and freshman writing.
